Rough: Holt and Scarlet

"Now Scarlet's gone and for two months I've been going through the motions of everyday life: Get up, sink my face into the pillow where her head once was, (I refuse to let the maid wash her pillowcase) drink in the sweet honeysuckle smell of her, take a shower and use my own fucking hand to try and satisfy this constant craving for her. Then I go about my day and wear myself out with punishing physical labor so I'll be too tired to think of her at night. It isn't working for shit. I miss her, I want her in my bed, my house... my life."

"I just told myself that Holt and I were supposed to be a one week fuck-and-run, even though it felt more like an actual hit-and-run when it ended so abruptly. So why waste time holding a grudge when all I've wanted for the last two months—fifty six days, practically to the minute!—is to have him kissing, touching, pushing, pounding me, period. I'm not holding anything against him, except for my body, that is."
